"Speaking of Music"

Jerry Shea says:—

This week we are playing the third suite of our series of Overtures entitled "Music of Other Nations."

In this selection we have tried to introduce novelty numbers such as "La Golondrina" better known as the Mexican "Home Sweet Home" and when you hear Signor Agostini play this melody on his saxophone I think you will agree that it is a sweet and sympathetic tune; then again there is "Katinka" taken from one of the first "Chauve Souris" productions. It seems to be impossible to find out the composer of this lilting number but it is genuine Russian, from Moscow: "The Tarentella by Cavallini" is introduced to show the beauties of the clarinet as a solo instrument. You know the clarinet is always called the heart of the orchestra, and when you hear Sig. Romano's rendition of this gem, I believe you will not wonder at the great regard musicians have for this instrument. Mr. Romano is a Neapolitan by birth and at present he also occupies the chair of clarinet instructor at the McGill Conservatorium. Regarding these overtures, I would be delighted if our Patrons would send in requests for their favorite numbers from their respective homelands, and I promise to do my best to embody these, in future arrangements.

I thank you,

Jerry Shea

Al Jolson sings on the Vitaphone

-- in --

"The Jazz Singer"

Coming to Palace next week

A name in brilliant lights over the entrance of a Broadway theatre—symbol of success—elusive mirage of the theatrical world—such is the goal of every actor—and of Jack Robin, whose life story told in "The Jazz Singer," the Warner Bros. Vitaphone special in which Al Johnson, musical comedy star, plays the title role as Jack Robin, and which comes to the Palace next week.

Jack Robin is first seen as the dissatisfied son of a cantor, being educated to follow in his father's footsteps. But the lure of popular song is too great for the youth. He visualizes his name in bright lights on the Great White Way. So far this life seems far more glamorous than the restrained existence of the cantor of a synagogue. Jack's father is unreconcilable, and the son runs away from home. His struggle to win fame in the theatre, the romance which enters his life, and his sacrifice to win over the prejudice of his father tell a beautiful story which finds its climax in the triumph of filial love.

"The Jazz Singer" is Jolson's initial motion picture effort, and through the dual facility of Vitaphone he and others are both seen and heard in the production.
May McAvay plays the leading feminine role opposite him. Warner Oland, Eugenie Besserer, Otto Lederer, Robby Gordon, Richard Tucker, Nat Carr, William Deamarest, Anders Randolf, Will Walling and others are included in the splendid cast of the production which was directed by Alan Crosland. Cantor Josef Rosenblatt also sang.

Cocktails By "Burnett"

Hostesses who serve cocktails prepared with Sir Robert Burnett's White Satin Gin, appreciate just how appetizingly delicious a cocktail can be, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that they are offering to their guests the last word in Fashion's latest decree on the preparation of mixed beverages.

Sir Robert Burnett's White Satin Gin

Is a dry Gin of delicately subtle flavor. Distilled from the ancient formula of the House of Burnett in the stills and equipment which have for long successful years given to a rapidly growing army of permanent users, the finest possible product of diligently careful methods and ingredients of absolute purity. A cocktail mixed with White Satin Gin becomes more than a mere cocktail — It's so distinctively different, with a flavor and fragrance not possible with any other Gin.

Palace Moviegrams

Because Fox Films was unable to find a suitable story for her first stellar role, Lia Tora, Brazilian beauty, wrote her own scenario, which, under the title of "The Veiled Woman," is now being produced under the direction of Emmett Flynn. With the completion of this picture Fox will offer audiences a new star and a new writer in the same person.

Charles Morton has been kept in training by the demands of his roles in pictures during the last year. Both in "4 Devils," the Murnau picture now playing in New York, and in "Christina" in which he plays opposite Janet Gaynor, Charles has the part of a trapeze performer in a circus.

When Love Comes Stealing

I have a secret revealing, —
Something that I treasure so — Deep in my heart there's a feeling, —
And dear, I want you to know.

Do you recall our first meeting?
We fell in love 'neath the moon
And while the hours were fleeting
You kept on singing this tune —

CHORUS

When love comes stealing into my heart,
And sings a song divine,
Then love reveals just what I'd impart,
When my heart calls to thine,
For loving you and you loving me,
Would be a lasting shrine, —
When love comes stealing into my heart
Then I know the world is mine.

Lorsqu'en mon coeur l'amour est venu

Les fleurs me semblent plus belles, L'azur du ciel est plus bleu
Quelle magique étincelle
A donc en moi mis son feu?

REFRAIN

C'est qu'en mon coeur l'amour est venu
Pour la première fois, et c'est par toi,
Oui, que j'ai connu ce délicieux émoi,
Depuis ce jour je suis devenu l'esclave de sa loi,
Lorsqu'en mon coeur l'amour est venu
Pour la première fois!
